

Blingless

Imagine a world without bling...

A bird, wingless.

A year, springless.

What if a Highlander was flingless?

Or a violin stringless?

A bell's not a bell if it's dingless.

A kingdom not a kingdom if it's kingless.

It would be a sad thing to see a bride ringless.

And painful for a broken arm slingless.

Is a bee still a bee if it's stingless?

Or a playground as fun if it's swingless?

A puppet wouldn't swing if stringless

And plastic wrap is ineffectual; cling less.

It'd be boring if a cash register was Kachingless.

No capital of China- Beijjngless!

We're stressing less

Because the world is not blingless.

It don't mean a thing if it ain't got that bling!
